
Keith W. Aspinall

Keith Aspinall is Director of Strategic Operations at BIO5, the life science translational research institute of University of Arizona. He is a member of the board of University of Arizona's College of Science, and Chairman of the advisory board of the School of Information, Science, Technology and the Arts. He serves on the advisory board of Boston University's School of Public Health, and is a past director of Greenway Medical Technologies, and of Hemocue AB.

Since 2003, he has been an Advisory Partner at Bain & Company, Inc. He specializes in the related fields of Oncology, Diagnostics and Life Sciences. He joined Bain & Company in 1980 and was elected to the partnership in 1985. In 1990 he was a member of the small team that negotiated the transition of Bain & Company from its founders to the partnership group as a whole. In 1993 he was a founding partner of the Stockholm office.

Prior to joining Bain, Mr. Aspinall spent five years in international audit and in information systems strategy in London. He earned his MBA from Harvard Business School with highest honors, graduating as a Baker Scholar. Mr. Aspinall is a Fellow of the Institute of Chartered Accountants in the UK and is a graduate of Oxford University where he received an MA with honors in Philosophy, Politics and Economics.

Mr. Aspinall is a citizen of the US and UK. He is married with three grown children, and lives in Tucson, Arizona in the United States.